

So this is okay. Not Pornographic. But necessary. Because low-dose x-ray scanners find guns, or so the canned photos like to demonstrate. So when is the last time a gun was used to hijack a plane? When was the last time a body-concealed gun made it through standard airport security? As for the “panty bomber,” never mind that some officials have said this sort of scan might not be effective, the next panty-man will just cram the bomb where the sun doesn’t shine. So let’s spend more “stimulus” money – play money – to buy a bunch of these scanners, because that creates jobs after all, and then hope for the best. Well I’m sorry, but not only is this level of intrusion offensive to the extreme, I don’t want to take a dose of x-rays every time I fly, so I’ll fly a lot less. This is sheer madness, all for the sake of not offending anyone. ANYONE. So let’s offend everyone equally, then it’s okay. And this is just one small example of the bureaucracy that is choking our country, cooking our minds, invading our privacy, shredding our Constitution, and subverting our children. Seen enough?

Copyright 2010, NetScribe